NEW CONFUSION in the tangled European situation was added today after Nazi troops seized and occupied Slovakia, extending the axis encirclement of Poland, which has to date steadfastly defied Nazi demands. Alarmed European statesmen pondered a possible move by either Hungary or Russia to check the astounding growth of the Reich in the past months. Blackened areas on the map vividly show the increased strength of Germany and her ally, Italy. Meanwhile, Poland again loudly protests the pressure against her.

Pope Appeals to Powers to Avert War

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Aug. 19 (INS)—Appealing directly to the heads of major European states to avoid war in this hour of crisis, Pope Pius XII today issued a dramatic peace plea with the hope that mediation would take the place of force.

The Pontiff, successor of Pius XI as the "Pope of Peace," followed up his recent overtures to Berlin, Rome, Paris and London with the prayer, before a delegation of pilgrims from Venice, that "God end forever conflicts between nations."

"We have attempted within our measures to remove the perils of war and consolidate a solid peace, founded on justice, with a respect for liberty and the

Nazi Armies Hold Line at Poland's Door

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Aug. 19 (AP)—The German army tightened its "protective" grip on Slovakia today with measures described by a Bratislava radio announcement last night as "military possession."

German troops were deployed along the Polish-Slovak frontiers for at least 100 miles—a far greater zone than that fixed by treaty last March when Germany guarantede Slovakia's independence for 25 years.

In Berlin, it could not be confirmed that Germany had taken "military possession" of Slovakia, but quarters close to the foreign office indicated there had been no change in German recognition of Slovak sovereignty. These quarters said developments in Slovakia were "following the course mapped out when the country arranged for and received German protection."

Soldiers of the Reich were reported moving in large numbers through the high tatras, the mountainous stronghold of northeast Slovakia which is regarded by military strategists as the back door to Poland.

Tens of thousands of German troops were observed in the vicinity of Zilina near the northwest termination of the Polish frontier.

VAG VALLEY TAKEN

Bratislava, the capital at the southwest tip of Slovakia, apparently remained under formal Slovak authority, but the rich Vag valley and the northern border-land admittedly were controlled by the German military command.

Slovak radio listeners were stunned last night when an English speaking voice, with reassuring tones, announced from the Bratislava station:

"Owing to the existing situa-

2 Men Seized In Bond Swindle

What police and federal agents declare was a $20,000 bond swindle, active in Boston and reaching into New York financial circles, was believed smashed today with the arrest of two men, each with bogus bonds in his possession.

One man was held by police, the other by federal agents, as U. S. agents who investigated New York angles of the case hastened here from New York. Word from Wall Street said the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York had $20,000 worth of the faked certificates, most of which had been cashed elsewhere.

One of the prisoners, police said, cashed bonds for $5280 with the Pine-Webber Co., Boston brokerage firm. This man, police said, had in his possession fake bonds with a face value of $96,000.

The other, it was reported, had cashed four of the bonds with the First National Bank of Boston, obtaining $3200 in cash.

The Second National Bank of Boston was also an intended swindle victim, according to police.

The men were seized after a prolonged investigation by Lieuts. George Augusta and Daniel Goode working with federal agents.

FOG HALTS SHIPS, TIES UP TRAFFIC

Auto crashes, grounded airplanes and impeded traffic and shipping resulted today from fog which shrouded eastern New England, but was heaviest from Boston to Cape Cod.

Hundreds of week-end tourists were delayed as the Eastern Steamship lines steamer Boston was forced to wait several hours before passing through the Cape Cod Canal on its trip from New York.

The Boston docked in mid-morning, about two hours and a half behind schedule.

Worst maritime mishap of the day came when the Coast Guard Cutter Northland, inbound from Oakland, Cal., to be outfitted to join Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition, ran aground on the rocks of Nox's Mate. The diesel tug Raritan stood by to pull her off at high tide, which is due at 3:21 p. m. It is the Northland's first visit to Boston.

All Nantasket boats cancelled morning sailings because of "thick" conditions.

Buses and trains were also slowed when the fog rolled inland, making the second day of misty weather to keep New England's summer temperatures moderate.

In the worst of the various auto accidents, Robert A. Webster and Elmer Hateh, both of Brockton, were injured in Milton. They were taken to the hospital after a crash in Randolph avenue.

Several motor boats were stranded over night because of the fog, the Coast Guard said.

Two fishermen, Clement Richardson of Melrose and Clarence Needham of Malden, whose craft was disabled by an engine breakdown yesterday afternoon, reached shore today after 17 hours in the fog off Nahant.

Threat to Kill Bund Girl

Warning Follows Nazi Revelations

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—Revelation of Nazi secrets before the Dies committee in Washington today brought speedy reprisal in a threat of death to Helen Vooros, 19-year-old Brooklyn girl, former youth leader in the German-American Bund.

She was passed a skull and crossbones from a poison bottle, with the words "Goodby Life," as she sat in a restaurant, following her sensational testimony in the nation's capitol.

She had told Dies investigators of un-American activities and that she quit the German-American Bund in disgust because of "immorality."

The plump Brooklyn girl also set secret service agents on the trail of a short wave radio station, operated by two alleged former Harvard students, which was used to communicate between the Bund and the German government. She also told of a German program which was to bring conquest of the United States within 20 years.

BOY DELIVERS NOTE

The death threat was passed her by a boy who said:

"A man outside told me to give this to the girl in the black dress."

She was passed a folded newspaper containing a report of her testimony in Washington. Folded inside was the iodine bottle label, on the back of which was written in shorthand the words, "Goodbye Life."

Miss Vooros named Paul Rochojski and Herbert Mai as the Harvard men operating the radio station.

She declared communications were exchanged continually between the Bund here and Hugo Haas, an official of the Stuttgart Foreign Institute.

Her testimony was contradictory to that given earlier by Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American Bund, who testified that no contacts were made between his organization and the German government.

In outlining a plan whereby Hitler plans to annex the United States in about 20 years, she said she and

6 Flee Blaze In South End

Six persons were driven from their home by a fire in Washington st., South End, one of two blazes which caused a total loss of $11,000 in Boston today.

The South End fire started in the Columbia restaurant, on the first floor of a four-story building and climbed the rear of the structure to the home of Dominic Conti and family. They were guided to safety by firemen.

Flames also burst through partitions into an adjoining Castle street building and damaged the Little Pala restaurant. Scores of persons living in the neighborhood were aroused.

Fire officials said the blaze was caused by careless smoking and estimated damage at $6000.

A few hours earlier, fire swept Farron's market in Dudley st., Roxbury, with damage amounting to $5000. Origin of the fire was undetermined.

TWO GIRLS KILLED IN GARDNER CRASH

GARDNER, Aug. 19—Two girls were killed here today when an auto in which they were returning from a dance in Winchendon crashed at 80 miles an hour into a stone watering trough in Union sq.

Police said they believed the auto driver, Joseph Wojtukiewicz, 20, of Pleasant st., Gardner, was attempting to escape from two officers in a cruising car who had signalled him to stop because his lights were not on.

The girl victims were Rita Couture, 19, of Parker st., and Alberta Cychol, 20, of Pine st., both of Gardner.

Miss Couture was killed instantly. The Cychol girl died a few hours later at Henry Haywood Hospital. Both suffered fractured skulls.

Young Wojtukiewicz escaped with concussion of the brain and cuts and bruises.

He allegedly claimed he couldn't remember being ordered to stop by the officers in the cruising car.

A police guard was placed at his hospital bedside.

The Couture girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Couture. Her parents, three sisters and a brother survive. Rita was employed as a clerk in a plumbing company office here.

Miss Cychol worked in a Gardner factory. Her father, Bronislaus Cychol, and two sisters survive.

Has $250,000 Toes

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19 (INS)—Zorina, the famous dancer, is not going to take any chances with fate, and so today she had insured her twinkling toes for $250,000, effective during the months of October and November, while she is in Europe.

Well, it seems that Zorina consulted a prominent astrologer about this and that, and the astrologer warned her that inasmuch as she was born under the sign of Capricorn she should be careful of her feet during the approaching cool months.

And so Zorina, who made a hit in the musical comedy "I Married An Angel" on the New York stage, and has just completed "On Your Toes" for Warner Bros., decided against any undue risk, especially as she will be abroad during the danger period. Hence the $250,000 insurance adventure. The policy will be delivered today, it was stated at the studio.

MASS. LEGION DENOUNCES 'WAR MEDDLING'

Big Parade Climax To Taunton Session

By JAMES F. McENANEY
Boston American Staff Correspondent

TAUNTON, Aug. 19—Highlighted by a resolve that America keep free of all foreign entanglements, 28 resolutions today were scheduled for speedy passage in the windup of the 21st annual state convention of the American Legion.

HENRIETTA GIROUX

While the veterans gathered in business session, more than 100,000 persons took vantage points for the annual parade—three hours of marching, due to get under way at 3 p. m.

One of the hottest election battles in the history of the Massachusetts department also was to be decided with the candidates, Ralph H. Lavers of Southbridge, Richard F. Cunningam of Boston and Dr. Elton V. Faas of Medford.

The most important resolution advocated that the United States "cling to the George Washington policy of minding our own business, tending to our own affairs and letting other nations do likewise."

COOL TO PENSION DEMAND

A demand for pensions for all World War veterans, urged in an address by Wilfred Jacobs, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, found little support from the legionnaires.

Acting in accordance with the "thumbs down policy" asked by Stephen F. Chadwick, national commander of the Legion, the resolutions committee had sidetracked such a resolve filed by Fall River Post.

Decided coolness to the pension demand was shown by the legionnaires after the address by Jacobs, who sought to have the Legion join in with the V. F. W. in support of pensions.

GOVERNOR TO MARCH

No mention of the matter will be made at business sessions today unless Fall River Post asks that it be explained why no favorable action was urged by the resolutions committee. Members of that committee announced the matter had been referred to the Massachusetts delegate to the national convention at Chicago next month.

Governor Saltonstall will be a marcher in today's parade.

Chief marshal was Capt. A. Loring Swasey of Taunton.

Practically every American Legion drum and bugle corps in Massachusetts will be in the line of march along the two-mile parade route.

The convention also adopted a resolve condemning President Roosevelt's proposal to advance the date of Thanksgiving Day. Delegates declared the change would bring the holiday too close to Armistice Day.

Vets' Good Deed Brings Girl Health

TAUNTON, Aug 19 (AP)—Three years ago she could not walk because of infantile paralysis, but today she is able to make her way around on crutches and within a year hopes to be able to discard all aid—because a bunch of war veterans decided they would rather help her than win a prize.

She is Miss Henrietta Giroux, who was "adopted" in 1936 by Taunton Post, American Legion, which used its fund of $2500, raised to send the post band to the national Legion convention in Cleveland, to start her on the way to health.

Today she was an interested spectator at the activities incident to the annual state Legion convention.

Three years ago the post was ready to send its crack band to Cleveland in high hopse of winning one of the major prizes. Then Edmond F. Gregg, commander of Bristol County Council informed the members that Miss Giroux was in dire need of financial aid.

26th Division Drives Forward In Big 'Battle' at Plattsburg

PLATTSBURG, Aug. 19—It really began to look like war—and sound like it—today, as two brigades of the 26th Division resumed their offensive in the fight which began yesterday.

The action was one of six major "battles" along a front where 52,000 officers and men saw the toughest test of the war games so far.

Taking the field after a few hours of exhausted sleep, snatched in chilly pup tents—it gets cold nights around here, even in August—the men limbered up their stiff limbs, ate a hasty breakfast, strapped on about 75 pounds of packs and equipment apiece, and sallied forth to do battle once more.

AIRPLANES IN ACTION

With the perky little 75's barking, and the 155's sounding their deeper, more authoritative note, as the umpires inspected the gun pointing and decided the effect of the phantom shell fire, it really sounded like war.

Far overhead, airplanes droned, causing the troops to scurry for shelter under bushes and trees, in imminent danger of suffering real "wounds" from hornets and other irritating insects—no respecters of Lieut.-Gen. Hugh Drum's orders that no soldier is to be hurt during the maneuvers if it can be avoided.

The general himself was an outstanding example of military mobility, as he appeared without warning at scattered points along the battle front, his staff car with its three stars of rank appearing now here, now somewhere else, as he watched the progress of the mimic war.

GOVERNOR TO VISIT FRONT

Both Gov. Saltonstall and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge are expected to join the troops tomorrow—the Gvernor to go into the field to watch his old outfit, the 101st field artillery, in action; the Senator to be assigned to duty with te intelligence service.

On the Senator's staff will be Staff. Sergt. Dennis J. Burke—Joe Burke, Massachusetts Legislator in civilian life—who served with the Senator, then a state representative himself, on the House committee on labor and industry, of which Lodge was chairman.

One new development which appeared to be doing everything asked of it was the "walkie talkie" radio, first used to cover golf tournaments, later graduating to field news assignments, and now one of the army's newest and perhaps most valuable instruments of communication.

NEW RADIO TRIED OUT

The miniature transmitting and receiving set, carried on its operator's back, functions steadily, enabling advance troops to keep in touch with their headquarters at all times, and eliminating those dangerous occasions when an outfit would be lost sometimes for days at a time.

Its only disadvantage appeared to lie in the danger of message interception, a problem solved by the 28th Infantry, First Division of the regular army, by using two full-blooded Tuscarora Indians as spokesmen.

One major problem faced by army authorities as the units marched and countermarched—still tired after their 12-mile hike of yesterday under field conditions—was that of damage.

The army leased 1700 properties from owners in this section, assuring the mthat damage would be slight, and would be paid for.

It will be paid for, after the claims section of 14 officers has spent a couple of weeks or more totalling it, but it will not be slight.

ACTION ON THE PLATTSBURG FRONT. TOBIN YOUNGSTERS JOYFULLY GREET DAD

Refreshed from his journey abroad with his mother, Mrs. James Tobin, Boston's mayor gave today over to his three youngsters, who with their mother were the first to greet him at Back Bay station.

He was greeted with a hug and smack from all the youngsters, Helen Louise, five; Carol Anne, four; and Maurice, Jr., 18 months.

"Your mother looks splendid, Maurice," whispered his wife, and then police made a clearing to permit camera men to photograph the family as a group.

Mrs. Tobin, senior, seemed to enjoy it all. She said she was glad to be home, but would have enjoyed "staying in Ireland another month, there were so many persons to see and places to go."

Mayor Tobin's sole comment in the home-coming jam was an indorsement of President Roosevelt's plan to celebrate Thanksgiving a week ahead, with the proviso that the change be postponed for a year.

"The President's reasoning is sound," said the mayor, "but I think the change should be postponed until next year, in order to avoid financial loss by turkey-growers and those who arrange football schedules."

Armed 'Vigilantes' Guard South Barre Residences

SOUTH BARRE, Aug. 19—An armed patrol of citizens that bore an ominous resemblance to the old "Vigilantes" stood on guard today in residential sections affected by the strike at the plant of the Barre Wool Combing Company.

The guards, self appointed, carried shotguns and side arms.

The police authorities, town and state, maintained a close-lipped silence, although there were predictions they would act.

Many of the guards came from areas in which "loyal" workers have defied the A. F. of L. strike call.

Bad feeling continued today between the federation and an independent union of employes still at work.

This union has the moral support of the CIO, but officials in the high command of the latter union said today they would not take any part in the controversy here during the strike.

Some of the CIO officers indignantly rejected the idea the organization would take a stand against the A. F. of L. and form itself into a strike-breaking organization.

Violent clashes have occurred in the last 24 hours, but no general disorder or anything approaching a riot.

Windows have been smashed, gardens damaged and boats smashed.

Workers still at the plant charged most of the damage was to the property of those who wouldn't strike.

Italian Club Picnic At Lake Boone

The Italian and American Civic Club of Dorchester will hold its third annual picnic at Triangle Grove, Lake Boone, Hudson, tomorrow.

The committee is headed by Mr. Frank Stracuzzi, chairman, assisted by Michael Caliri, president; John Di Carlo, treasurer, and Patrick Harting, secretary.

Arrangements have been made for an athletic meet and many novelties. Among the many attractions will be a soft ball game between the married and single men.

Buses will leave the clubhouse, 1333 Dorchester ave., at 9 a. m. sharp.

HART WINS BELATED VINDICATION OF HUB WOMAN'S CHARGE

The masquerade is over, the hoax exploded, and William S. Hart, the strong and silent hero of the soundless movies, today stood cleared of the ancient charge of being the father of a child who is now a strapping youth of 21, living in South Lincoln.

WILLIAM S. HART

"A belated vindication" was the way Judge Thomas Gould of the California superior court characterized his own action.

He had just ordered the return to Hart of $13,263 he had deposited as a trust fund for the lad.

Judge Gould ruled that Hart was not the father, nor Miss Elizabeth MacCauley, Wellesley College graduate, and former resident of Brookline, the mother.

The true mother, he said, is Mrs. Lucy Webb formerly of Boston, now of South Lincoln, who had no part in the impersonation.

ELIZABETH McCAULEY

It was her deposition that the boy, John Robert Webb, was taken from her by the school teacher when he was a baby, foisted upon the movie actor as his son, and so represented to the district attorney in Los Angeles.

As the whole movie world remembers, the California prosecutor questioned "Two-Gun Bill" for weeks, and took the public into his confidence as to the nature of the charges.

It marked the end of Hart's career, women's clubs and clergymen denouncing him.

The actor said today he met Miss MacCaulley only casually, and never met Lucy Webb at all.

Hart, who came to court wearing the weather-beaten hat which for so long was his personal trade mark on the screen, gave credit in his testimony to the Los Angeles Examiner and the Los Angeles Herald-Express for having obtained the confession from Miss MacCaulley, whose accusations had forced Hart to set up a trust fund for a child he knew was not his own.

TRUST FUND RELEASED

In a slightly quavering voice, and in a manner perhaps packed with more drama and pathos than any role he had ever played on the screen, Hart said:

"About Dec. 1, 1918, one Miss Elizabeth MacCaulley came out from Boston with a child of which she claimed I was the father. She went to the district attorney and he appeared to believe her story.

"I was summoned to his office for a number of nights, covering a period of about three months, and was pulled and hauled all over the country, but I could not convince him I was absolutely innocent.

"He finally said he would prosecute me if I did not create a trust to support this child. I asked him what kind of proof he had of this woman's statement, but he declined to give me any proof whatever.

FACED RUIN OF CAREER

"At that time I probably was one of the most important stars in the motion picture world and I knew that this could ruin my career entirely if it came out, and no proof could be found to refute the woman's statements. I knew it would discredit me in the eyes of millions of people.

Guard Chinese Bandit Suspect

Blood transfusions were ordered at City Hospital today for Lew Hong Nan, 30-year-old Chinese who was said to have stabbed himself after an alleged attempt, rare in police annals, to hold up a person of his own race.

A police guard was maintained at his bed, although he was reported in grave condition from a deep knife wound in the chest.

One warrant charges Nan with attempt to murder 16-year-old Henry Chin of Oliver place, who was stabbed twice as he fought to thwart an attempted holdup. The second warrant charges that the man threatened Lillian Chan, 45, with a knife.

Rename Office Holdover to Post

A holdover in office as member of the Cambridge water board for a year and one-half, Thomas H. O'Hara, of Concord ave., was renamed to the post for a five-year term today after a special session of the city council.

During the period since his term expired, Mayor John W. Lyons twice tried to replace him but the council rejected his appointments in each instance, finally forcing him to rename O'Hara.

Stroud Radio Twin Sued as 'Love Mate'

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19 (INS)—Naming Clarence Grigsby Stroud, one of the "Stroud twins" of radio fame, as the father of her unborn child, Meredith B. Davis, blond actress, today had on file a $50,000 breach of promise suit against the radio star.

Her complaint charges that Stroud wooed her, won her affections and then deserted her when she became an expectant mother.

Clarence Stroud

Their romance, she charges, began in Philadelphia in December, 1938, when Stroud allegedly proposed marriage.

"Thereafter, succumbing to blandishments and protestations of love and believing his promise to marry," the suit declared, "Miss Davis began living as man and wife with Stroud."

This association, she alleged, continued in New York, Miami, Toronto, Atlanta and Hollywood, until March, when she informed Stroud she alleges, she was expecting a child.

At this time, the complaint recited, Stroud abandoned her, after promising he would provide food and shelter.

Subsequently, however, she alleged, Stroud has refused to aid her and she has become ill and destitute.

Her complaint asks the court to declare Stroud the father of the child, which, it was declared, would be born in December.

Miss Davis alleges Stroud earns $1500 a week, and asks he be required to pay $1100 for her hospitalization and medical care, $2500 for attorney fees and permanent support for the child.

CRASH VICTIM SINKING

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 19—Marion S. Emry, 36, Jamestown, N. Y., Boy Scout executive, injured in a train-auto collision at Cornish, failed to respond today to a blood transfusion. Hospital attendants described his condition as "poor."

DANCER NOT 'SCANTIES GIRL'

Christine Forsyth, beautiful brunette dancer described as "The Amazon Girl" and ordered to don more clothing by City Censor John J. Spencer when he found George White's "Scandals" altogether too "scandalous" for Boston, is not the "Amazon" girl after all, Censor Spencer revealed yesterday.

Tall and willowy Christine, who is understudying Ann Miller, the show's dancing star, was listed in the role of the scantily-clad Amazon through a program error, the City Censor disclosed.

"It has been brought to my attention that Miss Forsyth, although so listed on the theater program from which I obtained her name, is not the girl who plays the part of the Amazon," Spencer said.

"That she was named as one of the girls I ordered to wear more clothing was due entirely to the error in the program, which I naturally used in identifying those whose costumes or lines I was forced to censure."

Christine, it was learned from friends of her family in this city, has carefully sidestepped all roles bordering on scanty clothing from the outset of her dancing career.

Although only 25, she has already danced on stages in Paris and London in addition to Broadway. Her ambition is to be another Ann Miller—the dancing star she is understudying in the "Scandals."

25 PALS OF GERM BOY INOCULATED

Twenty-five youngsters at the Nickerson Home for Children, Roxbury, were ordered inoculated against diphtheria today after runaway, 12-year-old Billy Smith, little orphan, was found at the home and taken back to the contagious ward at City Hospital.

The homesick lad, once an inmate at the home, dropped in to see his playmates after slipping away from the hospital and giving doctors fears of a diphtheria outbreak.

Inoculation of all the youngsters at the home was ordered by Dr. Frederick J. Bailey, deputy health commissioner, after Miss Florence Kuhn, superintendent, reported to police she was holding Billy.

The boy spent the early hours of yesterday at the home after leaving the hospital. He departed again after leaving a note, only to return and surrender last night. The note read:

"Dear Epper: I am sorry that I lied to you about them letting me out of the hospital. I escaped because they were keeping me there just because of my tonsels and they would not take them out. You need not be afraid because I did not have dip when I came in last night. The way I know I have not got dip is because they put me on the ward where you have tonsells (tonsils) out and I got all good cuigees (cultures). I will be back later on. By, and thanks for all you have done for me. (Signed) Billy."

Farmer Faces 5-Day Test of Hibernation

STOCKPORT, Ia., Aug. 19 (INS)—Ready to permit himself to be packed in ice for five days, Max Harlan, 42, Iowa farmer, left today for Temple University, in Philadelphia, to seek relief from internal cancer. His body temperature is to be reduced to 80 degrees for the "frozen hibernation," during which he will show few visible signs of life.

The treatment will be experimental, according to his physician, Dr. F. L. Nelson, who said almost nothing is known of the new "freezing" process' effect on internal cancer.

OUT OF HOSPITAL and back in "swim of life" is Georgia Coleman, former Olympic swimming star. She was released from Physical Culture hotel in Dansville, N. Y., after treatment for liver trouble. Doctors said she would be able to swim and walk soon.

NEW PLAN TO RAISE SQUALUS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 19—The $4,000,000 submarine Squalus and her crew of 26 dead may be raised to the surface without the aid of pontoons under a plan unfolded here by Rear Admiral Cyrus W. Cole.

This plan, one of two outlined by navy salvage engineers, calls for sealing of the high induction air system, closing of the hull valves and pumping all water from the submarine.

This would permit the Squalus to float to the surface by means of its own buoyancy, Admiral Cole said.

The plan, however, depends upon the success of the divers in closing the hull hatch, found open after preliminary lifting operations, and their ability to make the hull absolutely air-tight.

The alternative would be to lower the 10 pontoons, used in the first two lifts, and secure them close to the hull, so that when the water was blown from them the Squalus would be brought to the surface in a cradle of steel chains.

Admiral Cole said that during the preliminary operations, divers may possibly enter the hull of the Squalus to learn the conditions existing in the interior of the submarine, the tomb of 26 Navy men.

The final lift will not take place before two weeks, Admiral Cole announced, and will be completed then only if operations are permitted by fair weather and calm seas.

THREATEN GIRL BUND 'INFORMER'

29 others were taken to Germany for instructions in the part they were to play.

Among phases of that "instruction," Miss Vooros testified:

That Hitler, speaking at a meeting she attended, proclaimed himself "Fuehrer of all Germans."

That in Germany Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American Bund, is considered the United States' "Fuehrer."

That propaganda condemning Jews, Catholics and Masons was distributed to her group.

That President Roosevelt is partly Jewish.

WON GOEBBEL'S SMILE

At the meeting at which Hitler spoke, she testified, Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda and enlightenment, smiled at her.

"Did you smile back at him?" a committee member inquired.

"Yes, I did," she answered.

Then, after a pause:

"I later found out how dangerous it would be to be with him."

The girl said she and the 29 youths were taught that Germany was going to recover Danzig, the Polish corridor, lost African colonies, Upper Silesia, and then the Scandinavian countries, which they said were really Germanic.

They also wanted the Bund to colonize the United States, and set up entire "one-million" to preach Nazi doctrines, including anti-Semitism.

Earlier, Miss Vooros had declared that she had renounced the Bund because its leaders advocated what she termed "immorality."

TRIP DESCRIBED

"We were taught that to be together when we wanted to was noble and pure," she said.

She said that she had seen acts of immorality in both Camps Seligfried, Long Island, and Camp Andover, New Jersey, both Bund camps, and had tried to quit the organization. She said Dinkelacker and her mother prevailed upon her to remain a member.

Miss Vooros was a witness several months ago in the "beer license" hearings at Andover, N. J., when Camp Andover was called upon to show why it should be granted a beer license by the authorities.

She said they went to Camp Hibertoschoke, a Hitler youth movement camp near Berlin, for training in "national socialism and propaganda."

The girl, dressed in a black and white ensemble and wearing a straw sailor, related that she had joined the Bund's Youth Movement in May, 1937, for "social" reasons.

She said she did not realize it was a Nazi organization until she had been to two meetings. She declared that members were "compelled" to:

1—Know the life of Hitler.

2—Speak only German in Bund activities.

3—Know the life and history of Nazi leaders and Nazi martyrs in Germany.

4—Purchase a uniform from the Bund Youth leader for which she paid $11.

5—Study teachings printed in German which "lauded" the German form of government as the solution to unemployment and social security, and "criticized" the American form of government.

Members caught speaking English were "fined one or two cents for each offense, she said.

Similarly, failure to answer questions correctly on examinations concerning Hitler's life meant punishment in the form of losing the right to wear the Bund uniform for two weeks, she asserted.

HURT IN FALL

BACK BROKEN—Mrs. Harriet Burns, wife of film comedian Bob Burns, today was suffering from a fractured vertebra, received in a fall aboard their cruiser "Robin." Her physician described the injury as serious, but not critical.

FRITZ KUHN, leader of the German-American Bund, shown as he testified before the Martin Dies committee investigating un-American activities and foreign propaganda. Charges of love revels in the Bund camps were made at the latest session of the committee by two sisters.

Nazi Armies Tighten Grip Upon Slovakia

tion, Germany has taken military possession of Slovakia."

This action was taken for Slovakia's "protection," the announcer added.

Bratislava was swamped with disquieting reports. Townsfolk anxiously sought to learn if the German garrison would be transferred across the Danube and military rule inaugurated.

Travelers from the north told of Arava being turned into a virtual German encampment and of Zilina citizens prepared to evacuate their homes at the first hint of war.

It was learned authoritatively that Gen. Ferdinand Catalos, Slovakia's number one soldier, offered to resign as minister of war last week-end rather than comply with a German suggestion that he send two divisions of his little army of 30,000 to the Polish frontier. Other members of the National Council, however, persuaded him to keep his post.

DOMINATE ARMY

A "defense agreement" which was ratified yesterday between Slovakia and Germany was described in reliable quarters as placing this little republic's armed forces under outright German domination.

Incidentially, today's German minority newspaper proclaimed Bratislava's "Jewish problem is more than ripe."

Squads of police were sent to Bratislava's ancient ghetto which the German minority has invaded three times this month to beat Jews and destroy property.

The German minority newspaper Grenzbote said in a front-page editorial, "it is only right that the Jews be quickly and thoroughly punished this time for their evil provocations."

The last census gave 70,000 Jews in Bratislava.

It was learned reliably 31 persons were arrested overnight on a charge of distributing anti-government and anti-German pamphlets. They were reported seized by police in a cellar with their printing plant.

Poland Protests New 'Pressure'

WARSAW, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Polish viewpoint on Germany's tightening of her grip on Slovakia is summed up in this way in political circles:

"It must be regarded as evidence that German pressure (on Poland) is now increasing hour by hour instead of day by day. And also from a moral standpoint the reported move in Slovakia must be regarded as interesting. The same Germany, which complains so bitterly of encirclement would appear to be embarking on a deliberate program of military encirclement of Poland."

The morning newspapers, however, displaying only a denial by the Slovak legation that Germany actually had taken "military possession" of the small state. Generally speaking the news was received calmly in Warsaw.

Germans Still Charge Poles Terrorize Nazis

BERLIN, Aug. 19 (INS)—Germany's press campaign against the alleged "Polish terror" was extended today on the heels of a report from Bratislava saying Germany assumed military protection over Slovakia.

Hundreds of German refugees made their way across the Polish Silesian border during the night, in spite of Polish attempts to spot them with searchlights, the German official news agency, DNB, said.

The refugees, according to DNB, bore reports of "atrocities" allegedly committed by armed insurgents.

Pope in Appeal To Avert War

honor of nations," said the Holy Father.

FEARS APEX OF RUIN

"We have, within the possible limits, and insofar as the duties of the apostolic ministry permit, put aside other problems which have burdened our heart . . . for the good of the Catholic Church and all humanity.

"We do not wish, nor have we the heart, to renounce the hope that the sence of mediation, moderation and equity will make it possible to avoid that conflict which, according to every indication, will surpass the past in destruction and ruin, spiritual and material."

Then the Pope voiced this solemn plea:

"We do not cease to hope that the rulers of peoples, in their hour of decision, will draw away from assuming such a grave responsibility as resorting to force.

"But above all, we place our hope in the wisdom of men and the good will that is found in them.

PRAYER FOR PEACE

"Our gaze is raised on the Omnipotent Father, in whose hands are the hearts and minds of the governing ones.

"We implore that in His infinite good will and pity towards the human species, He will cause war to cease where it exists, and preserve all benignly from new and more inhuman conflicts. . . .

"May God so will that on this world, disturbed as a sea in tempest, there will appear a resplendent calm, operating for the concord of peoples and nations."

He concluded with the supplication:

"Give Peace, O Lord, to our days."

Hungary Woos Pole Friendship

BUDAPEST, Aug. 19 (AP)—Amidst the Rome-Berlin axis conferences of Foreign Minister Count Csaky the inspired Hungarian press today voiced a desire for untroubled relations with Poland.

The liberal newspaper Esti Kurir declared:

"Every good Hungarian watches with sadness the conflicts of the two friendly great powers (Poland and Germany). This situation imposes absolute neutrality on us. Poland and Hungary are closely united and there are unbreakable ties between them."

COULDN'T FALL in love with Hitler, Miriam Verne, American dancer, who appeared several times before the Nazi leader, declared that, although he is "sentimental," he's not the man to "fall in love with." Arriving in London, she declared, however, that "he's great fun, but too distant." At her last appearance, which Hitler attended, he presented her with a bouquet.

Berlin Cries Poland 'Can't Control Itself'

BERLIN, Aug. 19 (AP)—Inspired statements here alleged today the Polish government had completely lost control of its affairs—the same ominous accusation that was hurled a year ago at Czechoslovakia as the Sudeten crisis approached.

Diplomats saw in the increasing Nazi animosity toward Poland and apparent swift building of Germany's back fences in southeastern Europe the possibility the moment was ripening now for a decisive turn in the Danzig issue.

The Nazi press, continuing its anti-Polish campaign, rejected any idea of a conference to settle the quarrel with Poland over the return to Germany of the Free City and Pomorze, the so-called Polish corridor.

Berlin newspapers hailed as a "grand achievement of German technicians in Danzig" the new pontoon bridge which was to be anchored across the Vistula river today.

Nazi commentators said the bridge, to link the Free City and German East Prussia, demonstrates that Danzig's "vivid connection with the rhythm of life and work of the Reich remains untouched by the drawing of unnatural borders."

This came up on the heels of a parade of 1500 "SS-Heimwehr" (home defense) men in Danzig last night with trucks and field pieces.

Nazi District Leader Albert Forster told them to be proud of their weapons, which he called "the most modern of their kind in the world."

Commander Joachim Goetze replied:

"We do not want to parade. We want to fight. We want to fight for that which is sacred to us—for German blood and the homeland."

It was reported also the German first army corps would begin its autumn maneuvers before August 27, the date set for Fuehrer Hitler's address to veterans of the battle of Tannenberg on the historic grounds of East Prussia.

2 AIMS IN HITLER'S NEW GRAB

LONDON, Aug. 19 (INS)—German military domination of Slovakia, which forms a highly strategic wedge between Poland and Hungary, was full achieved today through a German-Slovakian army pact, according to British press interpretations.

Direct advices from Berlin and Bratislava minimized the importance of the military understanding, which permitted stationing of a German military mission in Bratislava, but observers were quick to point out that German control of Slovakia might have two important effects—it could increase pressure on Hungary to unite with the Rome-Berlin axis and it would facilitate access to Poland by German armies in case of war.

In spite of continental tension growing out of latest central European developments, British government quarters refused to be shaken out of their attitude of studied calmness. A spokesman for the foreign office spent most of his monday press conference dispelling rumors.

Duce Plans New Talk on Hungary

ROME, Aug. 19 (AP)—Foreign Minister Count Csaky of Hungary remained in Italy for the week-end to resume conferences with Premier Mussolini on the European situation Monday.

Authoritative Italians said the conversations, presumably on Hungary's place in a growing crisis as an anti-Comintern ally of Germany and Italy, would be resumed after the Budapest government had considered the outcome of Csaky's talks yesterday with Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Ciano.

English Correspondent Exiled From Danzig

DANZIG, Aug. 19 (AP)—G. Scott Watson, correspondent for the London Daily Herald in Danzig, was ordered by the police today to leave the Free City by 7 p. m. (2 p. m. E. D. T.). The police accused Watson of sending "false dispatches" on the situation in Danzig.

Noah Blamed For Anschluss

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Worst thing ever happened to Europe was when Noah took two of those Anschluss things on the Ark.

We never saw a picture of one, but it must be an ostrich with a pouch like a pelican.

The hungry Anschluss is now pouring a bit of ketchup on Danzig and has its beak all set for a big bite.

It all dates back to Napoleon, who wore a three-cornered hat so you couldn't tell which direction he was going.

'Failure Confessed' By New Deal Chiefs

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN
(Special to Boston Evening American)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—One of the most astonishing things about the New Deal, in its present state of demoralization, is its own public confession of failure and futility.

One does not have to prove that the New Deal has been a failure. It admits it.

For instance, the demagogic tirade of insulting abuse poured over the Senate in its late closing hours by Pepper of Florida, closed with this damning admission:

"This great nation was never more distressed, more sorely pressed by her affliction, than now."

Can you beat it?

FROM "BAD TO WORSE"

Of course, it's true. This nation is more sorely pressed today, after six or seven years of New Deal Socialism, than it was when in 1933 the New Deal came into power on what the country fondly assumed was a pledge to carry out the platform of 1932.

The advent of the New Deal found from 10 to 12 millions of persons jobless.

After six or seven years of bootless effort we still have from 10 to 12 millions of unemployed.

To accomplish just nothing, and leave this great nation as Mr. Pepper so aptly phrases it "never more depressed, more sorely pressed," has cost in addition to the ordinary revenues of the government, about 25 billions of borrowed money, the New Deal's legacy to posterity.

WALLACE CONFESSION

When Secretary Wallace was demanding an additional $119,000,000 to maintain farm parity prices—a sum which the House at first had denied to the squanderbund—the eminent genius who presides over agriculture bemoaned that without this further deluge of spending, farm prices would sink to the level of 1933.

This of course constitutes a confession on the part of Secretary Wallace that the whole cockeyed scheme of financing the farmers with borrowed billions has been a complete economic failure, notwithstanding it did prove politically successful in 1936.

When Mr. Roosevelt was denied his $4,000,000,000 "spend-lend scheme," and his $800,000,000 housing scheme, he predicted dire consequences to business recovery.

What plainer confession could there be, that outside the field of astronomical spending the New Deal hasn't the remotest idea how to promote recovery?

STAR TO BE — Barbara MacKenzie of South Braintree, well-known local dancer, who has turned to dramatics and is now playing with the Boothbay Players. She'll appear in "Heat Lightning" the week of Aug. 27.

HAVE FUN---COOL OFF ON SEA EXCURSION

Fun—with little expense—is available to you and the youngsters if you clip the coupons in tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser and set aside next Monday, the gala day.

In the Sunday Advertiser tomorrow you will find a strip of coupons making possible a cool, breeze-swept boat ride to Nantasket Beach, climaxed by an afternoon of excitement and amusement at New England's largest fun center of its kind—Paragon Park.

Clip these coupons and with them this is what you will get on next Monday.

One will give an adult, or a child, a special rate for a round trip ride to Nantasket—25 cents for the adult and 10 cents for each child under 12 years old.

Another coupon, if presented at Paragon Park with 25 cents, will be redeemed for a strip of tickets which includes admission to the park and 11 attractions in addition.

And still another coupon, accompanied by 15 cents, will entitle a child to seven rides in Riddle Park at Paragon.

Thus, for a total of 75 cents—with the coupons—is afforded a full afternoon of enjoyment.

Clip the coupons in the Sunday Advertiser tomorrow, read the instructions carefully and then throw dull care away on Monday.

THE SUNDAY'S PAPER

MAYOR TOBIN and Austen Lake unite tomorrow to write a story every New Englander, and particularly every Bostonian, will read and enjoy.

Boston's handsome mayor, who returns from an extensive tour of Eire, tells Sunday Advertiser readers what he has seen and heard in Ireland, discusses the recent activities of the Republican Army and comments on the repercussions in England.

Austen Lake, doing the writing, produces one of his very best stories of the year.

FUN AND THRIFT will be the reward of these fortunate readers who clip the Advertiser's outing and boat excursion coupon tomorrow.

Monday they and their families will be privileged to enjoy a whole day of pleasure at a price far below that ordinarily charged.

Especially will mothers and vacationing children like this opportunity.

WAR GUNS BOOM, and that is hardly an exaggeration. In Plattsburg, N. Y., the largest scale U. S. Army maneuvers in post-war history are being conducted with the famous Yankee Division taking an important part.

What goes on? How are Massachusetts and New England men spending their time? Who is injured? Who distinguishes himself and earns promotion?

The Advertiser's staff writer reveals the whole and interesting story in his dispatch from Plattsburg.

ON ANOTHER FRONT other military men are also busy. In Taunton American Legionnaires—men who fought in a REAL war—are holding their convention.

It makes news. Resolutions pertinent to the nation's present and future safety, voting, speeches and entertainment—these and all developments are contained in the Advertiser's complete and graphically illustrated story.

COLLETTE LYONS

EVERYBODY WANTS to make the acquaintance of Collette Lyons, the Boston actress whose Du Barry skit in George White's current "Scandals" created such a stir among the city's censors.

That is why the Advertiser's GREEN MAGAZINE introduces Collette and invites her to reveal the details of her climb to theatrical heights.

THE GREEN MAGAZINE contains an abundance of other interesting, thrilling and informative articles.

There's the gripping account of the French liner, La Bourgogne, which sank off the fishing banks 40 years ago, with famous members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra aboard.

There's the unusual story behind the popular song.

There's the strange case of Dr. Littlefield, whose murder produced one of the strangest trials in Maine's judicial history.

Columns by Walter Winchell, George Holland and Mark Hellinger contribute to the reader's enjoyment.

IN THE NEWS SECTION, a stimulating interview with the new head of Boston College, Rev. William J. Murphy, S. J., will interest thousands, as will the vivid, heroic story of Norman Prince, noted war ace.

Race followers will be pleased to learn that henceforth they are to have the assistance of science.

The Advertiser's new handicapping system enlists the knowledge and experience of meteorologists, geologists, physicists and other specialists to obtain accurate information concerning speed figures, track conditions, wind velocities, weight allotments and the various conditions that influence the "Sport of Kings."

Thus, for the first time in America, the Advertiser presents SCIENTIFIC HANDICAPPING.

TALES OF THE CALIFORNIA GOLD TRAIL continue in the American Weekly, which is distributed with the Advertiser.

In the sixth of his series of articles, Judge J. W. Pitts, one of the few remaining survivors of the exciting days of the Gold Rush, describes the tragic perils that beset many of the adventurers.

"And Now It's the Boomps-a-Daisy"—that is the amusing headline on page devoted to the return to fashion favor of the bulgy bustle and to the new dance the revived vogue has inspired in London. It is a timely, informative story about the American version of the latest dance craze which begins where the "Lambeth Walk" left off and ends with a bang!

"The Housewife's Food Almanack" explains how to use herbs to bring out the flavor of the average dish.

Tested and Approved — Good Housekeeping Bureau

SHOULD YOU REST AFTER EATING? | IS TOO MUCH SALT HARMFUL?

By DR. WALTER H. EDDY

Good Housekeeping Bureau

Should you lie down or take a walk after eating a heavy meal?
Miss E. C

The most natural thing after a meal is to digest the meal. For that purpose it must provide digestive juices, which are derived from the blood supply. In active exercise part of the blood supply is diverted to the muscles. For that reason it is generally considered better to stay quiet for a time and allow the digestive organs to get [illegible]

That is why too much salt may actually produce [illegible] filling the tissues with water [illegible] long as the body can provide enough water for the dilution, there is no direct harm to the tissues.

RICH IN IRON

Are canned apricots as rich in iron and vitamins as dried ones?
R. G.

Canning produces no reduction in the iron content of apricots, and canned apricots are therefore just as good a source of iron as fresh [illegible]

There are several methods of drying apricots. Experiments conducted at the University of California have shown that when apricots are dried with the aid of sulphur fumes there is also loss of vitamin A than when the sulphur is not used. But, on the other hand, the sulphuring tends to destroy more of vitamin [illegible]

VITAMIN A is the anti xerophthalmic vitamin, because its omission from the diet results in an eye disease called xerophthalmia. It is a component of butter fat and egg yolk. It is also present in the green leaves of plants, in certain roots especially those with yellow color (carrots, sweet potatoes, etc.), and to a more abundant degree in fish oils, such as cod liver oil [illegible]

MILK NOT CONSTIPATING

Is raw milk constipating, or does it alleviate constipation?
J. G. N.

Milk whether raw milk or pasteurized contributes valuable dietary ingredients to the body. The benefits derived from drinking at least a quart a day are conclusive answer to your query: no ill effects result; constipation is not a sequel to such use.

If you are troubled with constipation, look further for the cause. It may be in too little roughage in your diet. In too little intake of foods rich in both roughage and vitamin B, such as whole cereals, fruits and vegetables.

Love And Marriage Banish Fear

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For the past three years I've been in love with a man who works in the same office with me, and at last he has told me he loves me too. I've been out with him only a few times, because I'm so afraid he'll find out how ignorant I am about things. I've been out to dinner with him, and was so afraid I'd do something wrong.

Now he wants to meet my folks, and has asked to come to the house. We're just simple people, and I'm afraid if he finds out how differently we live from the way he's used to, he will break off with me. Your advice has helped others, please help me. JANET.

The first thing I'll say is get over that wretched feeling of inferiority. How you've managed to keep a man [illegible] three years, feeling that way, is beyond me. If your home is neat and clean, please get over the feeling that it's not good enough. If it's all right for you it should be all right for your friends.

Don't stand shivering on the bank; plunge in and show the young man how capable you are.

I Know a Country

By DANIEL WHITEHEAD HICKY

From Good Housekeeping Magazine

I know a country that no sea has bound
Upon no old and charted map it lies
Due east or west. Beyond all sight and sound
Of mariners and ships and searching eyes
Of northern stars it stretches, bright with sun
Lost in an archipelago of peace
Where no man's footprint rests, no tide is run
In all its [illegible] release.
There spring has cool and green on bough and leaf
Summer and autumn are seasons never known.
No boat puts into shore, nor Time, the thief,
No [illegible] Those [illegible]
Oh, keep forever heart—let none invade,
That wild sweet country that our love has made!

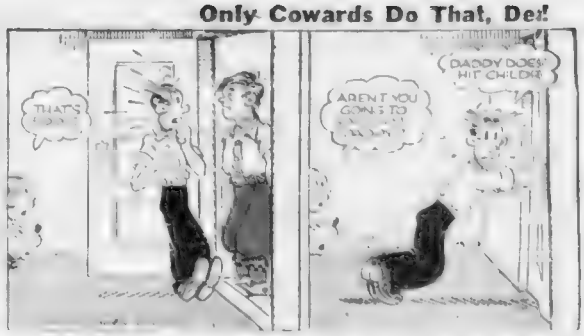
Only Cowards Do That, Do!



THE Runaway

by KATHLEEN NORRIS

"YOU'RE NOT coming into town with Gibbs and me tonight," Becky stated firmly.

"Oh yes; I must," Dr. Densmore answered. "They're bringing this Spuyten Duyvil case into town, and I've got to see her again. I operate at seven tomorrow."

"Did you tell them how to save her life, Doctor?"

"I hope so. It was something a little out of the ordinary. Healthy, sweet-type of girl, with two babies. Strange."

"Then you'll stay in town tonight?"

"Oh yes. And you, unfortunately, won't!" Stephen said with a whimsical half smile. "You'll be rushing past Albany and Buffalo . . . Becky."

The last word was said with a change in tone. Becky looked down at her plate. . . . It was going to say something . . . something . . . Her heart closed as a hand seemed to squeeze it hard.

"Becky," he repeated, "are you to see Laurence Moulton again?"

Oh. Her expression cleared to one of consternation. Oh, I was to have seen him," she exclaimed. "I forgot. I thought I would be going out alone earlier, and said I'd stop at the studio for a minute, just to say goodby! He'll have been waiting—it's almost four now!"

"How hard would it be for you to . . ." Stephen interrupted himself and fell silent. After a while he began again.

A REQUEST

"Becky, if I asked you, will you do something for me?"

Color rushed to her face. Wrapped in her big soft coat, with gold-brown fur touching the gold-brown waves of her hair and her eyes shining, she faced him squarely.

"Do you think there's anything I wouldn't do?" she asked.

Stephen reached.

"I believe you won't. It hurt that that stops me," he said heartlessly. "It's whether I have a right to ask it."

You! The simple monosyllable, half whispered was sufficient answer. But still he was troubled.

"It would be for you as well as for me," he presently began again, finding words with difficulty. It would be this: Would you break with Laurence Moulton?"

Break with Larry?" she whispered.

For ever, yes, to speak with Larry forever," Stephen said. "Just now. Just for these months ahead. Be with your mother in California, and with Harriet and me in Europe. Would that be frightfully hard for you, Becky?"

Not forever. Just now. Just on these months when you'll be with your mother in California, and with Harriet and me in Europe. Would that be frightfully hard for you?"

"No!" Becky said courageously. She seemed unable to say more.

He went on speaking seriously as if unaware of the betrayal in her eyes.

NO PROMISES

"I mean for you only to tell him that you won't . . . you won't consider yourself bound, you'll make no promise. I would say next autumn . . ."

"But I have done that! He knows that!" He knows that I'm not in any way free now." Her eyes narrowed. "Doctor, do you have anything about Larry?" she asked.

"About Larry, no. But his uncle—I know something of him many years. It is not in association that has that has any pleasant memories for me, and the thought of you belonging to it is hard.

I wish in all this time that Duane Fox—the butler—were here, the doctor said. I wish I had known who he was. It seems extraordinary, not that I ever talked to Barbara about it, or that you and I . . . know until now. And I can only ask you," he went on after a pause, "because . . . I . . . I . . . this time marriage. To wait to tell him that nothing can be considered . . . I . . . Do you . . . Do you . . . ?"

Of course I will do that, Becky said simply. "If you will have Carter . . . it . . . I'll see Larry . . . and . . . nothing else. But I . . . on it and having the little cottage fixed for us. He even suggested that I marry Laurence as soon as I get back before we go to Europe. And that . . . that'll have to stop, of course."

"Duane Fox suggested that?"

"Yes. At least we were all speaking of it at tea yesterday. And Larry wanted me to promise it. But I didn't. I couldn't."

"Becky, if you love him it isn't fair to ask it. And it isn't possible to explain."

"No, no!" she interrupted him eagerly. "It's such a joy to have you want me to do anything! I'll feel happier this way, truly I will. If you'll have Carter drop me at the end of the . . . I . . . I . . . I

RIGGS, COOKE TILT ANZAC CUP TEAM

Uncle Sam's remaining dance to take the laurels in the men's national doubles out at the Longwood Cricket Club in Brookline holds forth this afternoon, with Bobby Riggs and Elwood Cooke, America's top-seeded duo, tilting Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, top-seeded combination in the foreign division.

EYES NET FINAL—Comely Kay Stammers, pictured at Longwood, had a difficult task today, for she and Freda Hammersley were to battle Helen Jacobs and Dorothy Workman in a semi-final of the National Women's Doubles. The winner plays defending champions Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Fabyan tomorrow.

Feller's Wildness Still Keeping Him From Hall of Fame

By the Associated Press

There is a Feller pitching for the Cleveland Indians who has been standing on the threshold of baseball's Hall of Fame so long he might be mistaken for a monument.

But his chances of entering apparently depend on how soon he learns that pitching, like driving an automobile, calls for control along with speed.

The Van Meter (Ia.) speed demon tangled in the big show's hottest hurling duel of the season last night and lost, 1-0, in 11 innings to Lefty Ed Smith and the Chicago White Sox.

Young Bob gave only one hit in nine innings, a single to Jack Hayes in the third, but kept himself in the fire with five bases on balls, an error and two wild pitches.

WALKS FATAL

Then, in the eleventh, he walked Smith and was touched for a double by Hayes and a single by Mike Kreevich to lose the game.

This flashy performance was in contrast to methodical efforts of Smith, who spread seven hits and walked only two batters.

It explains, with no need for elaboration, why Feller has won only 17 games this campaign and lost seven, although twice turning in one-hitters and compiling an enviable strikeout total of 181.

The abbreviated program in the majors yesterday was packed with fine pitching performances.

Big Red Ruffing of the New York Yankees turned in one of the best. He earned his 18th victory by shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-0, on five hits.

Home runs by Bill Dickey and George Selkirk, each with a man on base, gave him plenty of margin with which to work.

Walter Kirby Higbe, who beat the New York Giants last week with a two-hitter, did it again on five hits as the Phillies opened their series with a 5-2 triumph.

Bob Bowman piloted the St. Louis Cardinals to their 17th victory in 19 games with a seven-hit, 3-0 shutout of the Pittsburgh Pirates—the latters' tenth straight loss.

OSMANSKI FLEETEST OF STARS

Bill Osmanski doesn't brow a football very well. His hands were not made to toss the pigskin. He doesn't kick a football very far either, although his inability to loot the ball does not reflect on the daintiness of his feet.

But Blonde Bill can run with the best backs that the game has ever known.

Bill Osmanski

Because he is a ball carrier extraordinary, Bullet Bill will be a very useful member of Swede Nelson's All-Star team when it takes the field at Fenway Park against George Preston Marshall's glamorous Redskins on the evening of September 11, in a game that is sponsored by the Crosscup Pishon Post of the American Legion.

On that memorable day another sophomore is making his varsity debut only he was on the losing side. Bob McLeod has burned his name on every All-American roster in the nation.

Like Osmanski, the former Indian can tote the ball like a whirling dervish, and like Osmanski Bob can throw a block.

So there you have them, a couple of helzapoppin guys, and both playing in the same backfield.

Entries Pour In For Dilboy Show

Entries keep pouring in to Fred Russo, for the final elimination bouts of the Golden Glove tournament at Dilboy Field, Somerville, next Wednesday, August 23, with boxing in five classes, the 126, 135, 147, 160 and heavyweight-all open.

Some of the best amateur boxers in New England are entered for this last chance at getting into the grand finals two weeks hence.

3 Seeded Players In Public Tilt

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—The semi-final round of the national public parks tennis championships was completed when three seeded players, led by Leonard Hartman of New York, No. 3 in the draw, joined unseeded Phil Rubel of New York in the round of four. Rubel made the grade yesterday.

Hartman advanced at the expense of Sumner Rodman, eighth-seeded Bostonian, 6—0, 7—5, 8—6. He will meet Rubel today. In the upper bracket, David Perchonock of Philadelphia, No. 5, defeated Lou Faquin of Memphis, 4—6, 6—3, 10—12, 6—2, 6—2, and Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, No. 4, conquered Nat Goldstein of New York, 6—3, 6—2, 5—7, 6—3.

Unseeded Marta Barnett of Miami reached the semi-final of the women's tournament with a 6—2, 6—0 victory over second-seeded Helen Germaine of New York, champion in 1932. Miss Barnett had won two previous matches at Love. She will meet fourth-seeded Mrs. Mercieca Parker of St. Louis, who advanced yesterday.

Top-seeded Mrs. Marjorie Blair of Santa Ana, Cal., who captured a semifinal berth yesterday, will face Mrs. Alice McDonald of Chicago seeded No. 3, who today prevailed over Mrs. Virginia Ducker of St. Louis, 1930 champion, 3—6, 6—1, 6—2.

The top-ranked Los Angeles tandem of Julius Heldman and Willis Anderson gained the doubles semi-final by defeating Don and Robert Hume of Brooklyn, 6—3, 6—2, 6—2. Along with them in the upper bracket went the Chicago pair, Eugene Quinn and Herbert Mertz, who turned back Albert Ritzenberger and William Turner of Washington, 6—1, 6—1, 5—7, 6—2.

Five First-Basemen In N. L.'s First Ten

When it comes to hitting in the National League, the first basemen have it, this week's Associated Press poll shows.

Five of the ten leading batsmen in the senior circuit are the men stationed at the initial sack.

The representation was increased this week by the feat of Gus Suhr in earning a place in the top bracket.

DEMAREE SLIPS

The shift from the Pittsburgh Pirates to the Phillies apparently had a favorable effect.

Johnny Mize of the Cardinals, leading his league for the second week with .353, has been among the first ten since June.

Zeke Bonura of the Giants, Buck McCormick of the Reds and Buddy Hassett of the Bees also have been regulars.

Suhr's replacement of Frank Demaree was the only change among the National Leagues' leading hitters, but the junior circuit came up with a trio of new faces.

Joe DiMaggio accelerated his pace slightly to boost his average to .395 at the top of the majors.

Two of his Yankee teammates, Charley Keller and George Selkirk, broke into the select company along with Ted Williams, sensational Red Sox rookie.

Delmont Head Judge at Fair

Alfred Delmont of Wynnewood, Penn., heads the judging list for Brockton Fair's 21st annual Dog Show, Sept. 11 through 13.

Delmont, one of America's most popular judges, will be in action all three days of Brockton's popular fixture which always attracts the nation's outstanding bench winners.

He warms up on Monday by passing out the prizes to nine breed classifications, including bulldogs, Pekingese and poodles. His Tuesday list includes all hounds except Dachshunde, the German shepherds and Newfoundlands.

On the final day of the show, Wednesday, Delmont really goes to work with 24 breeds to sort, including all the gun dogs, Scottish, Sealyhams and fox terriers.

Toys and non-sporting groups will be judged on the first day by Charles F. Hatrock, New Haven, Conn. Frank W. Hollis, Portsmouth, N. H., is handling the hound and working groups on the second day. Albert Geiger, Duxbury, will place the terrier group on the third day, followed by the selection of best gun dog and best dog in the show by Delmont.

English Racer After New Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 19 (INS)—After streaking across the Bonneville Flats at 352.94 miles an hour in a "tune up" run, John Cobb, noted English racer, said he would try for the world's record today or early next week.

The huge, turtle-shaped, "Railton Red Lion," piloted by Cobb, was clocked today on the measured mile at only 4.76 miles per hour short of the record held by Capt. George E. T. Eyston, also of England.

The mark he set is more than four miles an hour faster than he traveled last fall when he set a world's record, which stood only one day. Captain Eyston set the new mark of 357.7 miles an hour.

Cobb said he cut the throttle of his racer before he finished the measured mile, as he was not out to break the record. To make the speed mark official under AAA rules the racer must make the trip through the measured mile twice, once each way. The two runs must be made within an hour.

Georgia Coleman Leaves Clinic

DANSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—Georgia Coleman, ailing former Olympic swimming star, has left the physical culture hotel where she underwent treatment since July 23.

Dr. Paul Veatch, supervisor of the institution, who said Miss Coleman was suffering from a liver condition, added she departed "able to swim and walk some." He said he understood she would go to her Los Angeles, Cal., home.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Australia gained Davis Cup challenge round by routing Germany in doubles for third straight victory. Quist and Bromwich defeated Henkel and Metaxa, 6—2, 6—1, 6—4.

THREE YEARS AGO—James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion, forced to call off title match with Max Schmeling because of arthritis condition in elbows.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Helen Jacobs won third straight United States women's singles title, defeating Sarah Palfrey, 6—1, 8—4, in final round at Forest Hills.

Big League Stars

By the Associated Press

FRITZ OSTERMUELLER, Red Sox—Subdued Senators with careful nine-hit hurling.

JOE SULLIVAN, Bees—Held Dodgers to 10 hits for 14 innings, fanned nine, and batted safely in the final inning to lead bases and scored up winning run.

RED RUFFING, Yankees—Shut out Athletics on five hits for Yankees' fifth straight victory and his 18th of season.

TIRBY BIGBY, Phillies—Held Cubs to five hits in beating them for third time this year.

TOM SEAUGHTER and BOB BOWMAN, Cardinals—former got three singles, and latter pitched seven-hit ball to finish sweep of series with Pirates.

ED SMITH, MINTER HAYES and MIKE KREEVICH, White Sox—Smith scattered seven hits effectively over 11 innings and scored winning run when Hayes and Kreevich, who between them got six of Chicago's hits, bashed him around the bases in the 11th.

Aussie Netmen Will Lift Cup, Chief Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—Sir Norman Brookes, former Australian tennis champion and president of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association, arrived from England on the Mauretania, confident the Australian team would lift the Davis cup from the United States this year.

"On paper, the odds should be two or three to one in favor of Australia, after they beat Yugoslavia, to win from America," he said. "We almost beat you last year, when you had Donald Budge, and I do not see how you can win this year without him."

The Australian team meets Yugoslavia in the interzone final at Boston next week and, if successful, will play the United States in the challenge round at Philadelphia, Sept. 2.

ORIOLES BUY WARREN

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19 (AP)—Johnny Ogden, former general manager of the Baltimore Orioles and new manager of the Phillies farm club system, announced the purchase of Benny Warren of Oklahoma City, hefty Orioles catcher, for the Philadelphia National League club.

SPORT INTERLUDES

Stengel Trying Out Bench Warmers

Sullivan Proves First Flight Hurler

By BILL GRIMES

Little Joe Sullivan, a port side knuckle ball flipper, displayed an abundance of intestinal fortitude while steering the Bees to a 14-inning 4 to 3 victory over the Dodgers yesterday at National League Field.

Wild heaves by Heinie Majeski and Debs Garms presented the Daffiness Boys from Flatbush a tally in the opening frame, and a couple of mental lapses on the bases by the Bees were responsible for the tilt going five extra innings . . . "Little Joe" should have breezed home an easy winner over the regulation distance.

F. Ostermueller

Web Morse, that eminent sports authority on the Monitor, is one of the best judges of pitching ability in this section . . . Since the first day that he saw Fritz Ostermueller, No. 21 in action, "Webbie" has claimed the Red Sox southpaw . . . And, yesterday, Fritz came up with a fine 6 to 2 victory over the Senators and, of course, "Webbie" is screeching from the house-tops "I told you so" . . .

Apparently, Ol Case has sidetracked some of his ace hurlers . . . Yesterday, he sent Joe Sullivan to the hilltop and this afternoon, he assigned Johnny Lanning to mound duty . . . Judging from the course that Joe Sullivan's bunt followed in the 14th inning, the third base line at National League Field is as true as a billiard table . . .

After a lapse of 15 years, the Massachusetts Junior championship cup is back at the Vesper Country Club . . . In 1924, Marshall Forrest won the juniors at Belmont but since then Vesper hasn't been able to produce a youngster capable of duplicating that feat, until Ted Tabor stopped Ed Franzeim yesterday at Blue Hill . . .

Ted Tabor is a fine golfer and we take great pride in the fact that his first championship competition was in the 1936 Hearst New England juniors . . . The Blue Hill Country Club conducted a great championship . . .

The course was in excellent condition and everything clicked from start to finish . . . With the new clubhouse facilities, Blue Hill qualifies as a site for a state amateur championship . . . For, it is one of the stiffest tests of golf in the state.

"Sprayers" never come back alive at Blue Hill . . . John Ford, the pro at Blue Hill has a remarkable ringer score for that layout . . . Look it over . . . 2 3 2 2 2 2 2 3 3 —21—3 3 3 2 3 3 3 2 3 3—25—46.

George Picard and his father and Bill Norton and his son were to play Blue Hill today . . . George who succeeded his brother Henry as pro at Charlston, S. C., is home on a short vacation.

Lee Ballanfant, who worked behind the plate yesterday at the Beehive, spent most of the afternoon riding on Phil Masi's back . . . With every pitch that Joe Sullivan made, Ballanfant stepped up close and placed his left hand on Masi's back . . . There are any number of catchers who would shake Ballanfant off if he resorted to such tactics while they were behind . . . The Engineers' Club annual golf jamboree will be held at the Commonwealth Country Club next Thursday . . .

The Pirates are doing their annual nose dive . . . They have now lost ten straight and the chances are that Manager "Pie" Traynor needs a blood transfusion . . . The Cardinals arrived in Cincinnati this morning for a three game series with the Reds. Manager Ray Blades is getting the pitching and he may go right on the heels of the McKechniemen when he starts East tomorrow night . . . Harold "Jug" McSpaden, Winchester, is stealing the Canadian Open show at St. John, N. B. . . .

Ray Getliffe

With two sub-par rounds, the three time winner of the Massachusetts open title has the call over the contenders for the $1000 first prize and Sam Snead's title . . .

Art Johnson, the former Winchester high school southpaw, has won two games since he went to Evansville . . . And John "Yama" Quinn, who passed up the 1940 baseball captaincy at B. U. to play organized baseball, broke into the Evansville lineup with a home run . . .

It isn't too late to get a foursome together and trek for the Hatherly Country Club at North Scituate . . . Francis Ouimet was among the many starters today at Hatherly, as were Jesse P. Guilford, Freddie Wright, Teddy Adams and a host of other outstanding stars.

Ray Getliffe, the former Bruins, is playing in the Canadian open . . . Al Jarlett, the former Holy Cross star, pitched 12 no-hit, run innings for Rocky Mount recently and then went on to chalk up a 1 to 0 16-inning victory . . . Within a few years Walter C. Feeley, Jr., Oakley, who won the junior-juniors yesterday, should take his place among the best golfers in the State.

'Diving Smiths' Wed Year Ago

Jean Thompson Smith and Byron Smith, two of the Water Follies headliners at Revere, are husband and wife, although the thousands who have seen this water spectacle believe they are brother and sister.

They have been married for a year and their specialty, the "Diving Smiths," is one of the greatest water feats in tank work today.

Byron works off the low board and Jean off the three-metre board and they perform team diving which is perfection in timing, grace and form.

Oddly enough Jean's success in swimming is due entirely to the coaching of Byron who first saw her performance in Kansas City three years ago.

A year later they started to tour the country, and their friendship ripened into romance which ended in marriage.

Trotting Fans Given Real Treat

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 19 (AP)—A soggy track slowed up Grand Circuit trotters and pacers racing in a ten-event program, the longest in the history of the Illinois State Fair. Races rained out were added to the card. The Grand Circuit schedule will be resumed at Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 28.

Single Stine, bay mare owned by Todd Camp of Greenville, Pa., and driven by Dr. Hugh M. Farshall, won in straight heats the $1500 Governor Horner stake for 2:11 class pacers, one of the feature races.

SIXTO ESCOBAR TO INVADE COAST

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—Sixto Escobar, the bantamweight champ, is getting ready to invade the coast as a featherweight.

Jack Dempsey is going in for elk breeding on his Maryland farm. . . . Maj William A. Welch, of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission, already has given Jack a young bull and an elk cow as a starter . . . Television gets its supreme test when they try it out on the Dodgers next week.

Observation Ward

Big doings in the corn belt . . . 150 Parsons, Kan., addicts and a 25-piece band have chartered a special train to go to Emporia today to watch Parsons and Emporia battle it out for fourth place in the Ban Johnson League.

Al Jolson (Armetrong's No. 1 rooter), will fly here for Armstrong vs. Ambers . . . Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, Tulane athletic director, is fishing for trout and hunting for ends in the Colorado mountings . . .

Mike O'Dowd, former middleweight champion, is a visitor also Dr. Bob Madry, publicity director at U. of North Carolina, who was headed for the cove dance at the World's Fair on the double quick . . .

Jack Lelivelt, the old major leaguer, who has his ball team battling for the Coast League pennant, is the toast of Seattle . . .

Jack Britton, the old welterweight king and his son Bobby, are the only father-son combination in boxing right now.

Guest Star

Ted Worner, Yonkers (N.Y.) Herald-Statesman: "Now that they are making liars out of the calendars, how about scheduling New Year's Eve for one night next week?" . . . (Check and double check.)

Wake Forest College is considering a new course designed to teach the boys and girls how to pronounce such football tongue twisters as Gallovich, Duncavage and Polanski, to name just a few of the easier ones . . . Watch a former Beantown gal named Fay Crocker in the women's national golf next week.

She's burning up the Noroton courses in the low 70's. (She's eight-time Uruguayan and four-time Argentine champ) . . . Add Escobar: Sixto wants 10,000 frogskins to defend his bantamweight crown. Since there isn't that much dough around for the little fellows, he'll abandon the title.

Whoops M'Dear

One of the visiting British tennis gals was a wow on the air the other week . . . She was asked why Mrs. Dorothy Round Little isn't quite up to her game . . . "You see," she said, "Dorothy has put on a few stone and now is more round than little" . . . Gents, that slayed 'em.

BILLY CONN 'MAN OF WEEK'

By International News Service

Billy Conn, the light heavyweight champion from Pittsburgh, draws the little brass ring this week for his knockout victory over Gus Dorazio.

This was the first time that the good looking Irish kid, who looks like an angel but fights like a demon, invaded the heavyweight ranks, and he made his first effort a slashing success.

Billy is the picture fighter of the ring. Old-timers rave about his class. He is a master boxer, shifty, fast and smart.

The experts say he isn't much of a puncher, but, like Lou Ambers, it is always the other fellow and not Billy who takes the beating.

HAD TO STOP IT

He cut the very tough Dorazio to ribbons, so badly in fact that the referee had to stop the slaughter with the blood cascading down Gus' face.

And this is the same Dorazio who twice put Bob Pastor on the canvas and beat him the same Bob Pastor who is to fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight title next month.

BILLY CONN

It is amusing to listen to the femme fans murmur when Billy gets into the ring with a tough-looking customer like Dorazio or Melio Bettina, the swarthy gent from whom he won the light heavyweight title.

"Isn't it a shame to put a nice looking boy like that in with such a bruiser?" is a remark commonly heard at the ringside.

But that angelic appearance of Billy's is a snare and a delusion. Actually, he is tougher and tougher than any of his more formidable appearing opponents and far more vicious in action.

Billy loves to fight. He has been fighting all his life and probably will continue to fight until they cut the gloves off him.

You have only to note his defiant and vicious reaction when hurt to discover how he relishes a battle.

TOO LIGHT FOR LOUIS

Once stung, he turns into a fighting fury, and this readiness to throw caution to the winds is his one great drawback. It may one day prove disastrous against a cagy heavyweight.

They say Billy is growing and has hopes of becoming heavy enough to fight Joe Louis, but he weighed only 173 for Dorazio, and many doubt that he has the frame to carry another 20 pounds.

In any event, he is formidable enough as he stands, and he should rule the light heavyweights, at least, for a long time.
